Rev. Fr. Nicholas Despotides, Emeritus

Today our eyes are taken away from Bethlehem's cave and focused on the Jordan River. We hear in the Gospel passage from St. Mark, the announcement by John the Forerunner of "he who is mightier than I.....who will baptize you with the Holy Spirit." In prophetically announcing the coming of Jesus as a man, John stress that Jesus has power, that His baptism reveals the Divine nature of the baby born in Bethlehem, that soon will be revealed the Savior — not privately to a few, but to the entire world. And so we turn our eyes to the beginning of Jesus public ministry — that time when he will make clear the will of His Father for us, when He will reveal the futility of sin and the wisdom of following Him. The Theophany of the Lord manifests that He is the Son of God, well-pleasing to the Father, and should be listened to. As we continue to remember the Lord's birth, let us resolve to move on the taking His public ministry to heart — to listen to His teachings and preaching, to live what He announces as "the Way", and to follow Him wherever He leads us — ultimately to the Cross and the empty tomb. The water we bless on Holy Theophany is a reminder of Christ's own baptism and the beginning of his ministry and the wonder of the redemption of man.

EPISTLE II Timothy 4:5-8

TIMOTHY, my son, always be steady, endure suffering, do the work of an evangelist, fulfil your ministry. For I am already on the point of being sacrificed; the time of my departure has come. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day, and not only to me but also to all who have loved his appearing.

TODAY'S READER: JEANNE KITSOULIS

GOSPEL Mark 1:1-6

THE BEGINNING OF the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. As it is written in Isaiah the prophet, 'Behold, I send my messenger before your face, who shall prepare your way; the voice of one crying in the wilderness: prepare the way of the Lord, make his paths straight' John the baptizer appeared in the wilderness, preaching a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. And there went out to him all the country of Judea, and all the people of Jerusalem; and they were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins. Now John was clothed with camel's hair, and had a leather girdle around his waist, and ate locusts and wild honey. And he preached, saying, "After me comes he who is mightier than I, the thong of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. I have baptized you with water; but he will baptize you with the Holy Spirit."

Apolytikion for the Theophany of the Lord

Lord, when You were baptized in the Jordan, the veneration of the Trinity was revealed. For the voice of the Father gave witness to You, calling You Beloved, and the Spirit, in the guise of a dove, confirmed the certainty of His words. Glory to You, Christ our God, who appeared and enlightened the world.

Kontakion for the Theophany of the Lord

You appeared to the world today, and Your light, O Lord, has left its mark upon us. With fuller understanding we sing to You: "You came, You were made manifest, the unapproachable light."

THE GREAT BLESSING OF THE WATERS ON THEOPHANY

The Great Blessing of the Water is appointed twice at the Feast of Theophany. The first takes place on the paragon (the day of preparation for the Feast), and the other takes place on the day of the Feast itself. There is no difference between the two services. Where both Blessings are celebrated, some among the Faithful have adopted the pious custom of drinking the waters of the first blessing for health and spiritual refreshment (since the Fifth is a strict fast day), and then of sprinkling their homes with the water from the second blessing. The water from either service may just as well be used for both purposes. The Scriptures make it clear regarding the importance of water spiritually and physically, its place in hearts and souls and as a medium for God's cleansing, renewing, and healing work. Patriarch Bartholomew reminds us that as stewards of the earth's rivers, lakes, and coastal waters, Orthodox Christians anywhere in the world have an obligation to bend our energies to assure the future of the world's water resources for drinking, fishing, and swimming. Yes, we are not free to turn on the water tap, mindless of our stake in all efforts to clean up pollution and to pass on a heritage of clean, potable, life-supporting water to the human generations and all the other life forms after us. The men of Jericho approached the Prophet Elisha for his help with the city's springs, for they realized that their water supply problems were not merely an issue of physical contamination but were a difficulty having a spiritual dimension as well (vs. 19). There will be no instant solutions to the rapid degradation of the world's waters so long as human hearts and souls are not healed. Until we approach the basic elements of earth with reverence, we labor in vain to heal the springs of our cities and lands. The Great Blessing calls water "a gift of sanctification, a deliverance from sins unto healing of soul and body and unto every expedient purpose." Let us realize our relationship with water as a fellow 'creature' upon which we depend both physically and spiritually. May God also open the eyes of our hearts to the sacramental role of water. In the great mystery of His infinite love, God cleansed the water of Jericho in a rite of blessing for life in that city and for the whole ecosystem within which it was situated. So let us also drink the Divinely blessed waters of Theophany and sprinkle them upon our homes, rejoicing as the Priests bless our homes. God, the Holy and Life-giving Trinity is among us giving "redemption, the blessing of Jordan," providing for the "remission of sins...protection against disease...destruction of demons" unto the cleansing of our hearts and souls. Great art Thou, O Lord, and wondrous are Thy works and no words sufficeth to hymn Thy wonders. Glory toThee, O Lord. Glory to Thee.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 5TH, IS A STRICT FAST DAY IN PREPARATION FOR THE FEAST OF THE THEOPHANY

BLESSING OF THE WATERS IN OCEAN CITY
